16th European Conference on PRECISION AGRICULTURE

ECPA 11-15 JULY 2027 Copenhagen, Denmark

AUTHOR INSTRUCTIONS FOR POSTER DOCUMENT PREPARATION

Authors must carefully follow the instructions below for the preparation and presentation of their posters at ECPA 2027. The final version of the poster document will be reviewed by the Editorial Board. To this end, authors must submit their document by January 30, 2027. Only posters that have been accepted by January 30 will be considered for presentation at the conference. The submission procedure consists of submitting a two-page Word document following the specifications below. This document must be uploaded to the official ECPA 2027 platform and accepted papers will be included in the conference poster book. After acceptance of the poster, the authors should prepare a poster using the template that will be available on the website at a later stage.

In addition to checking compliance with these guidelines, the editor will check the format, spelling, and use of English in each poster document. Both the editor and the organizing committee reserve the right to reject posters that do not substantially comply with the instructions provided, or that are not a fit to the Precision Agriculture definition. Also, poster documents that contain significant deficiencies in spelling, grammar, or English writing that require extensive corrections might be rejected. Authors are strongly encouraged to check their work carefully before submission to ensure acceptance.

GENERAL POINTS

1. Authors who are not native English speakers are strongly encouraged to have their abstracts reviewed/corrected by a competent native English speaker before submission.
2. There is no flexibility regarding the date that will appear in the editor's email for sending manuscripts to the publisher. Therefore, authors must adhere to the deadline given to them (January 30, 2027).
3. Colored figures may be included in the abstract.
