

ISPA Membership Categories:

- (i) Individual membership
- (ii) Student membership

Membership Benefits: Every individual member and student member receives:

- Access to the membership directory and opportunity to network with Precision Agriculture professionals from around the world.
- Membership account provide limited electronic space to post your resume, pictures, etc., for greater networking and professional opportunities
- Access to an electronic copy of society's journal "International Journal of Precision Agriculture"
- Opportunities to publish research and review articles in the society's journal
- Opportunities to present oral and poster papers at the society sponsored events such as International Conference on Precision Agriculture, Asian Conference on Precision Agriculture, African Conference on Precision Agriculture, and European Conference on Precision Agriculture, etc
- Discount on the registration fee to the conferences sponsored by ISPA society.
- Biannual newsletter that will provide information from around the world related to Precision Agriculture research activities and industry updates.
- Opportunities to nominate and be nominated by other members for the ISPA sponsored awards and recognition at the society events.

Note: ISPA is a young society. It is expanding across countries and developing with time. If there are additional benefits that you would like to see included among the list of benefits, please send an email to President@ispag.org